Building a stronger workforce together.

Businesses are increasingly seeking registered apprenticeship programs to source skilled employees. Although traditionally applied to manufacturing and technical operations, apprenticeships are now available in a variety of industries including supply chain management, information technology, healthcare, and many others.

HOW IS APPRENTICESHIP BENEFICIAL TO MY COMPANY?

Apprenticeships give you a hiring advantage, positioning your company as one that invests in its employees. Offering apprenticeships to existing employees develops valuable, higher level performers, while building loyalty and engagement, and reducing turnover. In fact, studies show that the retention rate of apprentices far exceeds that of a traditional employee. Apprenticeships improve your bottom line.

While programs can be flexible in their design, they all include these components:

- > On-the-job training
- > Related instruction at GTCC
- > Rewards for skill gains
- > Award of a national credential upon program completion

GTCC and ApprenticeshipNC will work with you to design a successful program that fits your unique needs.
